Dear Mr. Kotschwar:

I write today to invite you to join The Heartland Institute in New York City for a major policy event.

On March 8-10, 2009, we will be hosting the 2009 International Conference on Climate Change at the Marriott New York Marquis Times Square Hotel in New York, NY. This event is a follow-up to our hugely successful 2008 conference, where hundreds of the world's leading scientists, economists, and policy analysts explored key issues overlooked by advocates of the theory of man-made global warming. This year, we will examine where the alarmists have lost credibility and where skeptics are gaining.

In a recent Boston Globe column, Jeff Jacoby featured our upcoming conference, noting:

“The scientists and scholars Heartland is assembling are not members of the gloom-and-doom chorus. They dispute the frantic claims that global warming is an onrushing catastrophe; many are skeptical of the notion that human activity has a significant effect on the planet’s climate, or that such an effect can be reliably measured or predicted. ... They are far from monolithic, but on this they would all agree: Science is not settled by majority vote, especially in a field as young as climate science.

“Skepticism and inquiry go to the essence of scientific progress. It is always legitimate to challenge the existing ‘consensus’ with new data or an alternative hypothesis. Those who insist that dissent be silenced or even punished are not the allies of science, but something closer to religious fanatics.”

In order to register for the event, please fill out the attached reply form a fax it to the number indicated at the bottom of the page. Please note the registration fees indicated on the form are for the general public only,—registration is free for all national, state, and local elected officials and their staff. In addition, The
